INDUSTRY NIGHT

The Center for Aviation Studies' Industry Night is an amazing way for companies and students interested in aviation and aerospace to start conversations and network amongst each other. Ohio State's Industry Night will be open to everyone at the university and more specifically our 450+ aviation students! Sponsors will be provided tables for display material and the opportunity to directly connect with our students. Our networking space will allow for a free-flowing, relaxed environment for students to participate in networking and discuss future career goals.

As an industry sponsor, you will have a unique opportunity to engage with students and understand their career aspirations for the future, as well as provide any and all career and internship opportunities your company may be offering.

NETWORKING WEEK

The goal of Networking Week is to provide your company the opportunity develop a deeper connection with our students at your event type of choice. Taking place during the week of Industry Night, our Buckeyes will be prepared to build lasting connections!

The Center for Aviation Studies is willing to help coordinate with companies interested in sponsoring a Networking Week event to plan within the local Columbus area.

Looking for ideas? We suggest hosting an event at a restaurant, or even somewhere fun including social activities!

Registration is free for individuals to attend the event, however for a table, sponsorship is required.
